A MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

Rooted History Blossoming Future

Dear Friends,

What a year it has been. So much has changed yet so much remains, and I am happy and excited to say that operations around Bancroft are fortified and renewed after a year of determination and grit.

We have created many opportunities which made the organization ripe for growth. By bolstering Bancroft's foundation and finding fresh environments to bloom, we are able to direct our focus forward to what comes next. I know that Bancroft is an incredibly important – and evolving – organization, yet remaining constant and committed to our mission is paramount to the organization's success.

I cannot wait to see how we continue to flourish in the year ahead.

In fiscal year 2022, we added a fourth school to the Bancroft network of schools, Kohler Academy in Mountainside, NJ, setting the foundation for growth into the Northern New Jersey and New York metropolitan area.

We introduced an intensive outpatient treatment program for young children and adults ages 3 to 21 to help address the 50% gap in demand vs. access to services.

A number of our professional and clinical staff members have received accolades and regional recognition for their innovative work in the fields of autism, intellectual and developmental disabilities and brain injury.

I'm also excited to say that we've been developing our new strategic plan: Changing Lives. With this plan as our keystone, we will continue to meet the distinct needs of those we support today while opening the door to so many others. We will be ideally positioned to expand access to those who need us, cultivate an expert and dynamic team, deliver excellence through outcomes and promote independence for those in our care. I look forward to sharing additional information with you in 2023 outlining how together we will continue Changing Lives.

The last fiscal year has been one of rejuvenation and here we stand, refreshed and ready for our hopeful next chapter. Because of you, Bancroft will continue to do exactly what it has always done since 1883 – offer a continuum of services and care for the lifetime of all individuals who need our support and services. Because of you, our mission is more alive than ever.

With gratitude,

Toni Pergolin

Bancroft Launches Severe Behavior Day Treatment Program

One of only a few like it nationwide and serving children and young adults from 3 to 21, the Severe Behavior Day Treatment program offers outpatient treatment for those experiencing severe and challenging behaviors. Located in Cherry Hill, NJ, this unique program is designed to stabilize and reintegrate individuals whose behavioral challenges significantly impact their quality of life and their ability to engage with family, friends and their surrounding community. As the demand for services grows, we are excited to offer this clinically-rich program to further meet the unique needs of children and young adults living with profound autism and their families.

Bancroft® Severe Behavior Day Treatment Program

Introducing Kohler Academy: A Bancroft School

In early summer, Bancroft added Kohler Academy, a private nonprofit special education school in Mountainside, NJ, expanding our network of exceptional Bancroft schools. For nearly 60 years, Kohler Academy has provided a nurturing academic experience for young learners living with autism, intellectual and developmental disabilities, Down syndrome, cerebral palsy and other developmental delays. We are so proud to have the Kohler community join in the Bancroft mission and welcome Kohler students, families, friends and team members!

Bancroft NeuroRehab Welcomes New Medical Director

Dr. Christopher S. Karam joined Bancroft NeuroRehab as the new medical director in March 2022. Dr. Karam came to Bancroft with a deep educational and professional background in physical medicine and rehabilitation. He completed a physical medicine and rehabilitation residency at Georgetown University Hospital/National Rehabilitation Hospital in Washington DC. His fellowship focus was in interventional spine and sports medicine and he is also certified in medical acupuncture. He provides quality and holistic care to patients in rehabilitation settings and we are so excited to continue to learn and grow under his leadership.

Tracy Kettering Ph.D., BCBA-D, a Game Changer and Woman of Excellence

Tracy Kettering, director of Bancroft’s ABA Center of Excellence, was named a “Game Changer” in SJ Magazine’s 2022 Women of Excellence Awards. Dr. Kettering oversees research, clinical education and supervision initiatives, including an on-the-job program for employees that leads to a master’s degree from Rider University. She is an advocate for autism awareness and trains people in the community – including law enforcement and healthcare workers – to understand neurodiverse behaviors. As a practitioner, Dr. Kettering has seen the impact of early intervention and quality services and, as the demand for services increases, she is focused on improved and increased access to services for families in crisis. Dr. Kettering is not only a game changer at Bancroft – she’s a game changer in the field.

Center of Excellence Leadership Continues to Grow

Kellie Goldberg, M.S.Ed., BCBA was named associate director of the ABA Center of Excellence. Goldberg’s career in Applied Behavior Analysis spans more than 20 years, including as the clinical director at Bancroft’s Lakeside program. She brings valuable clinical and leadership experience, especially in working with individuals with more severe forms of autism. The Center is a valuable resource not only across the organization but also within the broader community, providing invaluable education and training to create opportunities to improve the quality of life for children, adults and families who need our services.

The Perfect Home for

Christine

Christine McCauley is a people person. She loves to be around others. She wants to get to know everyone she meets and find out everything she can about them.

It's no wonder. The youngest girl in her family and fourth of five children, Christine's parents, Mary Kate and Joe McCauley, say she's always liked the spotlight and cares deeply about others, making new friends wherever she goes. And she is whip-smart.

As Christine neared adulthood, the McCauleys realized she would need a different type of support to grow, discover new adventures and truly live her best life. They wanted Christy, as she's affectionately called at home, to find an environment tailored to her unique needs; one that balanced her need to spread her wings with her need for support, structure and routine. They turned to Bancroft.

As her three older sisters packed up and moved away to college, Christy's parents helped her pack up and move onto her own adventure in a Bancroft group home. This home became a place where she has continued learning skills for greater independence, engaging with housemates and staff, and enjoying the experiences that mean most to her. Here she has been creating adventures for over 28 years.

Coined as “Christy’s College,” transitioning to life at Bancroft gave her the chance to experience the excitement of moving out on her own and making new friends. At the same time, the 24/7 support in the home has provided her the opportunity to learn how to cook, clean and do her own laundry. The direct care staff onsite helps her access enrichment activities both at home and in the community. This holistic approach has allowed Christine to blossom, given her the right balance of support and freedom to see for herself what she likes and dislikes, and empowered her to experience the same trajectory as her sisters and brother. She’s truly living her best life.

Living in a Bancroft home has given Christine the ability to engage her social side, fuel her curiosity and feed her desire to learn about others, whether that means her housemates, the Bancroft team or others she meets when she’s out and about.

We can breathe easier
she’s in a

– Mary Kate and Joe McCauley

When she’s at home with her housemates – whom she’s affectionately nicknamed “the guys,” as she’s the lone female in the co-ed house – the group loves to play games and watch movies. Other times, they’ll go out to eat or shop, passions all four friends share.

Living and learning at Bancroft means different things to each unique person we support.

For Christine, Bancroft is a place that has allowed her to continue to do what she loves, continually encourages her to learn and experience new things safely and with support. That supported independence has given Christine the ability to mature, grow and shape her own vision of the life she wants to live.

When she goes home to visit her parents and sisters, Christine fills their family home with stories of her friends and experiences “back home” at Bancroft and loves sharing what she has learned. At the end of her visits, Christine excitedly returns to her home, with “her guys” and their familiar routine.

Thomas

Finds Independence

Kristen and Thomas Piotrowski want so many things as their children grow: a happy home, a life of learning and enrichment, skills needed to thrive; the ability to live their best lives. Today, they have two very happy and healthy boys, Jacob and Thomas, who are each receiving the love, care and attention that they need to fulfill those goals.

Thomas lives and loves his life at Bancroft. Ask anyone who knows him and they will tell you, Thomas is incredibly sweet; he also has challenges that require unique and dedicated support.

Thomas entered special education programming at age 3. When he was 10 and still in a traditional school, his parents and education care team decided he needed more support than the staff could provide. This decision started their search for a new school where Thomas could grow into himself; somewhere he could flourish.

Enter Dennis Morgan, Bancroft’s senior vice president for Children’s Services. A longtime friend of Michael’s from college, Dennis had been encouraging Kristen and Michael to look into Bancroft for Thomas. He knew that at Bancroft, Thomas would have access to unique opportunities and specialized support that would empower him to live his best life. The more the Piotrowskis learned about The Bancroft School, the more they liked it.

Changing schools has proven to be the right decision for Thomas. At Bancroft, he's made friends who care for him like family and met staff who want to see him succeed just as his parents do. At age 14, Thomas moved into a Bancroft children's residence. Already happy with their son's social growth and academic progress, the Piotrowskis realized that this 24-hour, person-centered support and supervision was exactly what he needed. He's gained positive habits, taught and reinforced by Bancroft team members, and independence in his daily life. He has his own space, his own home, and he loves it.

While nonverbal, Thomas has found his voice in other ways – he communicates with sound and actions, and enjoys music and playing with objects that make noise. He is an active teen, and with his care team, hopes to learn how to ride a bike so he can join other children outside riding this fall.

Everyone can have a full life and some of us need a little extra help.

– Kristen Piotrowski

Thomas recently attended prom at Bancroft. His residential team helped him find the perfect outfit for this exciting occasion, and in photos, you can see Thomas beaming with excitement and pride. Prom was a huge milestone for Thomas and a confident step into his young and independent life.

Thomas's life at Bancroft has not only helped him grow but has helped his family grow, too.

"I am glad Bancroft exists to help Thomas but it has also helped us," Michael said. "Bancroft supports Thomas and also helps Jacob receive focused time and attention at home with his parents. Time to be a kid. Bancroft has allowed our entire family to grow."

Adam's Story

A daily highlight for those working in Bancroft's corporate office is the arrival of the OneBancroft "cleaning crew." If you're in the building when they make their rounds, you'll no doubt hear them engage with employees in their cubicles or in the halls – offering everything from cheerful greetings to compliments on a fun shirt someone might be wearing.

And then there's Adam Schlesinger, affectionately known as "Fist Bump Adam" for his signature greeting: a gentle fist-bump and a quiet "hi" that elicits a smile even on the toughest day.

Adam and the rest of the crew are participants in Bancroft's Adult Employment program. The program focuses on lifelong learning through hands-on job training that allows adults with autism and intellectual/developmental disabilities to practice work-readiness and social skills that can ultimately help them pursue competitive employment.

Adam's Bancroft journey began in 1982 when he moved into a group home. As he transitioned to adulthood, he began his work in the Adult Employment program. He's enjoyed his daily rounds with the "cleaning crew" for nearly 20 years.

Latoya Richardson, now a manager in Adult Employment, was his job coach 17 years ago, helping him build the skills that would carry him through his time in the program.

“Adam is a fast learner and problem solver,” Richardson said. “He’s routine-driven but can be redirected if a situation or need changes.”

A creature of habit, Adam thrives off of his daily routine – including those fist bumps to his friends and coworkers.

When the COVID-19 pandemic began, Adam’s current job coach, Thomas Kent, knew he needed to help Adam develop a new, no-contact method of greeting. The two began to practice elbow-bumps and air high-fives, an individualized solution that allowed Adam to continue interacting with people in a safe way without too much deviation from his routine.

When Adam isn’t working, he enjoys spending time with his friends, especially his roommate of over 25 years, Eric.

They are just the
friends.

– Jeff Kueny, Program Manager

This dynamic duo has been together through so much, growing together and supporting each other through life’s challenges. Those who know them best, wouldn’t know one without the other.

Together with their housemate – thanks to the generosity of many Bancroft families, including Adam’s dad, Tony – Adam and Eric have experienced wonderful community outings and enrichment activities through the years, including Broadway shows, sporting events and vacations. They love everything about these experiences: the souvenirs, dinners in new places and traveling together.

Donor support has been essential to ensuring Adam and his housemates have access to the community opportunities they enjoy.

Bancroft has been Adam’s home away from home. It’s given him a strong foundation and support he needs to thrive; a place where he’s been able to live, work, build independence, do the things he loves to do and bring joy to so many others – through a simple fist bump and “hi.”

Brian

Finds Balance with Taekwondo

Seven years ago, Brian Hentz was driving home from work on the Florida Turnpike when he was rear-ended by a tractor-trailer going 70 miles per hour. The crash was catastrophic, leaving Brian with numerous physical injuries, including a severe traumatic brain injury (TBI).

Brian made significant progress – but after a few years, Brian and his wife, Maureen, knew he needed more help to address persistent balance and memory deficits. In 2019, they turned to Bancroft NeuroRehab (BNR), where a team approach and individualized treatment plans help clients like Brian achieve greater outcomes.

“I just love this place,” Brian said.

Neurological rehabilitation looks different for everyone, and BNR’s team of expert clinicians often explore outside-the-box approaches to help clients reach milestones they once found daunting.

Earlier this year, Rehabilitation Supervisor Carolyn Tassini, PT, DPT, CBIS, and six BNR clients joined a collaborative study with the University of the Sciences that looked at how Taekwondo classes impact brain injury patients.

The study explored how this particular form of martial arts might affect factors like social and community connectedness, balance, attention and focus. Brian’s need for balance and memory rehabilitation made him a perfect candidate for the trial – as did his longtime desire to try Taekwondo.

Scan the QR code for a sneak peek into the Taekwondo program!

To maximize the benefits of his Taekwondo practice, Brian tapped into his physical therapy sessions – and his support from Dave, BNR’s Canine Assisted Therapy (CAT) dog. CAT dogs are trained to help clients improve their initiation, stay on task and make therapy more enjoyable.

Brian and Dave spend their sessions walking around Bancroft NeuroRehab’s Resnick Center in Mount Laurel, NJ, where Dave gives Brian encouragement – and cuddles – during challenging days. Their work together helped Brian improve his physical fitness, too, so he could maximize his Taekwondo success.

For the Taekwondo study, participants attended two classes per week in which they practiced moving drills, stretching, kicking, blocking, self-defense and other techniques. Brian and the five other participants had a belt test, and they all graduated with their yellow belts.

Brian’s wife Maureen was quite pleased with his experience, noting that he was interested, engaged and able to focus for longer periods of time each session. “We were able to see improvements in as early as two weeks,” says Dr. Tassini. Early observations of the study found that participants had improvements in balance, social engagement and support, memory gains and various other improvements in clinic-setting therapy sessions.

Dr. Tassini added, “We believe that part of the success is that participants were able to take more risks than when they are in a clinical setting. The fact that this was community-based made all the difference and right now there are just not enough opportunities like this.”

While Brian’s goal for the class was to get in better shape and work on balance, he achieved so much more. Taekwondo boosted Brian’s confidence and helped him gain new friends as he worked his way towards greater independence. Maureen and Brian agree that this program helped Brian’s recovery and are hopeful that he will be able to continue Taekwondo practice as part of his rehabilitation. This unique opportunity helped Brian not only find physical balance but balance in many aspects of life, helping him continue to rebound and recover his independence, remaining hopeful and positive for the future.

During his time training, Brian demonstrated more self control,

For Rebecca and Fadi Cherfane, giving back to the community has always been a family affair. Growing up, Fadi’s close-knit Lebanese family instilled in him the values of respecting elders and caring for those with disabilities. Rebecca was raised by parents who believed in giving back and helping people in need.

Fadi immigrated to the United States to become a dentist, a trajectory he quickly decided was not for him. Instead, he decided to pursue a degree in auto mechanics and Elite Auto Service, Inc., was born. When he met Rebecca, it was love at first sight – for both of them. Together, Rebecca and Fadi set out to build not only a business, but a family and a life together, guided by the values instilled in them as children.

Helping takes so little time but makes such a big difference.
– Rebecca Cherfane

Luckily for Bancroft, they brought their caring and compassionate nature to this community. It all began when Elite Auto started to service Bancroft’s vehicles and Rebecca noticed the hard work and dedication espoused by Bancroft employees driving its fleet. She was impressed by how much they did to help those supported by Bancroft and was curious to learn more.

Before the COVID-19 pandemic, Rebecca began volunteering with her son, Mathew, at a Bancroft group home in Voorhees, NJ. They shared their love of cooking with the residents and were welcomed with open arms after their first plates of spaghetti and meatballs were served. From then on, Rebecca took requests and made everything from pot roast to beef brisket, much to the delight of the residents. Rebecca and Mathew have also volunteered at the Judith B. Flicker Residences for Older Adults to teach residents how to use iPads.

Realizing the impact of the amazing work of the Bancroft team, Rebecca was moved to help even more. She and Fadi began sponsoring many of Bancroft’s fundraising events, including the Butterfly Ball, Bancroft Golf Outing, and Sip, Swirl & Support Bancroft. Elite Auto has been driven to support in any way possible because, in Rebecca’s words, “what Bancroft does is so amazing!”

Commenting on the commitment of Bancroft’s direct support professionals, Rebecca shared, “It is not just a job, they have a special place in their hearts for people with disabilities.” Rebecca and Fadi hope to continue giving back, passing this important tradition onto their children, just as it was passed onto them.

Charitable Foundation

The TD Charitable Foundation is on a mission to change the world. Through a global initiative to level the playing field for those who need it most, they are clearly aligned with the Bancroft mission.

“We share the mutual goal of promoting inclusivity and providing opportunities for children and adults living with disabilities to live their best lives,” shared Renee Rattigan, the foundation’s senior manager, Strategy & Social Impact. The foundation strives to invest in ways that will drive positive change and make a big impact in the communities they serve.

Since 2009, the TD Charitable Foundation has generously supported Bancroft with $207,000 in total grants. The foundation’s largest gift of $125,000 supported the construction of the new Bancroft Raymond & Joanne Welsh Campus in Mount Laurel, NJ. They have also supported the Bancroft NeuroRehab (BNR) vocational program, adult day and employment programs and have sponsored the Butterfly Ball.

We believe in opening doors for an inclusive and sustainable tomorrow for all.

– Renee Rattigan

A core belief to the foundation is that when people participate in their community, good things happen. Through this partnership, it’s evident that when TD Charitable Foundation and Bancroft work together, great things happen.

“We believe in opening doors for an inclusive and sustainable tomorrow for all, and this includes increasing access to healthcare, employment opportunities, workforce training, financial education, and connections with community members,” Renee shared.

With headquarters just miles apart, the TD Charitable Foundation and Bancroft have created a true community partnership. This past year, the TD Charitable Foundation awarded Bancroft a grant in support of the BNR vocational program. This grant-funded program helps individuals who have suffered a brain injury, stroke or effects of other neurological conditions return to work. This step is just one of many on the path of rehabilitation, but it is one that helps many people reconnect with their sense of purpose and identity. This partnership allows the individuals supported by Bancroft to continue to recover their way of life and increase their independence: truly helping each person in our care live their best lives.

Meet Bancroft's Newest Giving Society

1883 SOCIETY

Bancroft's 1883 Society honors our most dedicated donors who have consistently given a gift to Bancroft for three consecutive years or more.

1883 signifies the special year we planted our roots: when founder Margaret Bancroft took her first courageous step to creating a more equitable world. Through her advocacy for individuals with disabilities, she created a school which became a beacon of hope for families.

This light is embodied in the many donors who we welcomed in the inaugural year of the 1883 Society. On the following page, we honor a distinguished group of members who have given consecutively for 10 years or more.

This commitment to Bancroft's mission ensures that we will be able to continue to grow our innovative services, helping unlock the full potential of each individual we support, just as Margaret Bancroft aspired to do.

MEMBER SPOTLIGHT

"My family, Peter and I are very grateful that Bancroft is a huge part of our lives and has been for over 38 years. We will always support Bancroft in all ways possible. We also encourage individuals and companies to learn about Bancroft and how they too can support Bancroft's mission."

– Janis Sweeney, Peter's mom

Family Advisory Board

The Family Advisory Board (FAB) comprises Bancroft families who are grateful for the care their loved ones receive and committed to the organization's future and financial sustainability.

The FAB meets twice a year, both virtually and in person, allowing members to interact with other Bancroft families, the Board of Trustees and executive leadership. Meetings provide insider information regarding the organization's programs, services, events and high-level strategic initiatives as well as access to topical presentations from Bancroft thought leaders.
